

Nightwish, Music

Before you knew
Your home was in the wind and surf
The birds and rain, voices of the northern lights

Then you came
I joined you beyond the aeons
As you blew your cave bear bone
And began to hum

Eradicate the torment of a heavy heart
Emancipate the deaf
Sing the graceful third part
Then orchestrate and air
For only you to sing
Caress it deep
It's always there to unlock the stars
To enter

Music
Fanning the flames of a mystery
Deepening the listening
Losing
Yourself to the endless symphony of now

You want to dream?
Want to tell a major scale?
Wish to leave the hollow, to dance with Pan?

Can you hear the brave drum from the moors?
Follow the beat and leave the noise behind
If we be lovers

Performance starts
Come join the gathering
And you will leave with a wildflower after taste

Become the kind who still laughs at butterflies
Give me a home inside you until the final "Thank you and good night"

Music
Fanning the flames of a mystery
Deepening the listening
Losing
Yourself to the endless symphony of now

Human
Singing the tale of another man
Have you ever heard
Music
It is coming, coming, coming your way
The very first song

In here
I am the silence of sound
Curing the common show
From the steady song
There, I'll greet the greedy crowd
But will never, ever sing to them

Tick-tock, time stops
Follow me into the fog
To the hilltop
Follow the call sky-clad
Evoke the hum

Allure the sirens
All it took was
Time and silence

Music
Fanning the flames of a mystery
Deepening the listening
Losing
Yourself to the endless symphony of now

Music
Fanning the flames of a mystery
Deepening the listening
Losing
Yourself to the endless symphony of now

Human
Singing the tale of another man
Have you ever heard
Music
It is coming, coming, coming your way
The very first song