Nine Inch Nails, Deep

blank stare disrepair there's a big black hole gonna eat me up someday someday fades away like a memory - or a place that you'd rather be some place lost in space itch in my head that's telling me somewhere somewhere out there anywhere I don't care get me out of here if I could feel all the pins and the pricks if you were real I could take what's apart and put it back together this will come true help me get through into you deep deep deep deep deep deep deep all I can do driving me through into you deep deep deep deep deep deep deep one track got you on your back your skin speaks up but your lips couldn't say it right now I know somehow we could take the chance and we could make it make it right here make it all disappear everything that we've been missing missing you make me feel that there's a part of me that I want to get back again make this come true help me get through into vou deep deep deep deep deep deep deep all I can do pushing it through into you deep deep deep deep deep deep deep all I can do driving on through into you deep deep deep deep deep deep deep you're slipping through I'm coming to into you deep deep deep deep deep deep deep we could become two into one leave this behind over and done everything new I'm getting through into you
