

No Motiv, Requiem

I would like to know what happened to you where have you been all this time that I've tried to get through but all I got was the machine what's goin on don't play dumb I'm not blind I can see because I know there's something wrong or so it seems but I still wanna know do you love me because it seems I'm heading for another tragedy of lies deceit and anonymity I've tried. your friends and family they act as if there was nothing between you and me you're not returning all my calls what's wrong don't you care for me at all? there's not a day that gone by that I don't think of you and I know somewhereinside that you love, me too.
