

Northern Room, Galaxy

Pianos bleed for superstars
While heroes shed their wings and fall
Our days of youth have come and gone
So put your back where your back is strong
The spotlight burns a hole in me

Let me run away from here
Let me run away with you my dear

Unless you breathe once
You'll find your tears filling the galaxy
It's another dark road that you'll walk on your own
Unless you breathe once
You'll find your heart filling with gravity
You're another lost soul without a place of your own

These violins make monsters crawl
You hold them down as they hit the floor
Our days of youth have come and gone
So put your heart where your heart belongs
The spotlight burns a hole in me
This irony is deafening

Let me run away from here
Let me run away with you my dear

Unless you breathe once
You'll find your tears filling the galaxy
It's another dark road that you'll walk on your own
Unless you breath once
You'll find your heart filling with gravity
You're another lost soul without a place of your own
