

Oceania, North Korea Revisited

swallows singing in Gingko mountains anchor the rainbow footsteps creaking furtive doorknobs turning try to look busy now it's your face that betrays you and the things you say in your sleep there is a new star in the sky tonight his birth was foretold if the Americans ever catch you they will suck your blood