Omd, 2nd Thought

And all the order in our lives Left some time ago Along the way We are the ones who never cry Like we don't care Today Me at home and you out there And on your way It's gone so far and now it seems It's only me Who cares I know it helps the times you asked Though never gained A little hope to set you free Less restrained And though the order in our lives Left some time ago We are the ones who never cry Or so we're told It's gone so far and now it seems It's only me Me at home and you out there along the way Me at home and you out there along the way Me at home and you out there along the way