Once, Once

Part of me Has Died And won't return And part of me Wants to hide The part that's burned Once, once Knew how to talk to you Once, once But not anymore Hear the sirens call me home Part of me Has vied To watch it burn And the heart of me Has tried But look what it's become Once, once I knew how to look for you Once, once But that was before Once, once I would have laid down to died for you Once, once But not anymore. Hear the sirens call me home Hear the sirens call me home

Hear the sirens call me home Hear the sirens call me home