

Origa, Aney, Uborn Child

This is not new conversation
Many people feel this way
History repeats itself again
In this ruthless world, the killing
Broken people all around
It's a shame, but it seems to never end
Aney, Aney, you, my unborn child
Sorry, sorry, I can't sing a brighter lullaby
A new day of realization
Future mothers plead
Let my body be a source for peace
Feeling fear 'cause there's no telling
What will follow in the years
Lost in doubt and hesitation, forgive me please
Aney, Aney, you, my unborn child
Sorry, sorry, I can't sing a brighter lullaby
I've never met you, though I've felt you in a dream
Hearts whispered in silence, you were there
No, I couldn't assure you, everything will be alright
For now, I walk this shadow world aloneso alone
Governments and all they promise
I can see their lies
Now the price is just too high to pay
Hatred, poverty and darkness
Who will bring us light?
Can't we stop the pain and just start living life?
You, generals heartless
Make your wars, have you no god?
Truth unite all mothers of the world
For love, peace and freedom, we must find a better way
Hope given back to my unborn child every child
Aney, Aney
want to sing a brighter lullaby
Aney, Aney
