Over The Rhine, Hej

This is as close as you and i ever get to the ocean my third story bedroom window overlooking this rain-drenched night you breathe and i recall the power of trains let's let the night seep in let's pray that it engulfs us you know i can't even begin to see your eyes but if i'm even really drunk it will be from drinking every drop of your soul and running till i sweat your spirit