Oxford Drama, Oxford Drama (raw mix)

I'm the one to blame going to sleep with dreamy guilt you say the next day, it will go away

I'm the one to blame acting a bit of oxford drama you say the next day, it will go away you know it's like a bad habit and I will always come back home you don't even have to wait very long or convince me that I'm wrong and after a while of not seeing your smile the body shivers and the ground beneath my feet shatters the distance is getting wider heartbreak and solitude please don't let me never forget me anymore

you know it's like a bad habit and I will always come back home you don't even have to wait very long or convince me that I'm wrong