

Paranormal, Paranormal sun (wersja angielska)

I hang around between two worlds every night
I close my time in a single point to have my sight
My senses dive in a silent sounds of memory
To get across my thoughts to not to hope for sleep
Dancing barefoot on a glade your sunny dance
You used to light in your eyes flames of grace
You showed me meadows full of spirits never born
And angels from the dreams I'd never dreamed before
And then one night you broke your fear to liberate from your own gloom
You stopped your life to find the light
I saw you staring at me paranormal sun
Hiding tears in your eyes
Saying "forgive me"
I don't know why I didn't know how to say it paranormal sun
Broken glass broken fingers nothing left to fear of Motorway lights why are you so cold
You told me once "thoughts are real more than words
You can create in your mind a brand new world"
Though your whispers sound to me an angels voice
Well I looked for illusions within your words
But begging you to come around I found a smile on your face
I realized it's not a lie
I saw you staring at me paranormal sun
I comprehended you have built that world you got
I don't know why I didn't know how to say it paranormal sun
You've changed my heart don't you think so
I every tree I search for your smile
I rave about every flower telling me
That you came here to stay
I saw you staring at me paranormal sun
I comprehended you have built that world you got
I don't know why I didn't know how to say it paranormal sun
I'd never say a word or even give a sign
Because I thought that you didn't want to hear
Now all is wasted they gonna hate me
I'm scared of thinking it could change everything
I saw you staring at me paranormal sun
Leave behind the things you've said
Leave behind the rules you played
And make your way through the other space
'cause I can't live without this fire fire in your eyes (your eyes)
