Patrick Watson, Better in the Shade

If it was supposed to be so right I'd be sitting on your bed like I did last night If it was supposed to be so real It would be drunk in the way the night makes you feel

If it was supposed to be so right If it was supposed to be so real Won't you count, won't you count me in

Whatever follows you in the dark Whatever follows you in the dark Whatever follows you in the dark Let it carry Let it carry Let it carry you Somewhere between your rights and wrongs Ain't there a little bit of space we could all sing along

If it was supposed to be so right If it was supposed to be so real Won't you count, won't you count me in Won't you count me in

7 o clock and it's just about to get too dark And you're still playing in the park You're just sitting there in the shade

If it was supposed to be so real Won't you count me in If it was supposed to be so right Won't you count me in
