Paul Carrack, If You'd Ever Needed Someone

Stop right there and listen, Before you say something you might regret I know something's missing But I can't begin to accept what you said Maybe, you can show me Exactly where I'm goin' wrong Cos lately I've been thinking Maybe I've been round here too long If you'd ever needed someone in your life Maybe then you'd know Why my heart just wants you to stay But my head tells me lo let her go If you'd ever needed someone One way or another Whatever I do it seems you criticize Is there any wonder The hurt that I feel is so thinly disguised I can't help but notice Little things that tell me so much Is it only a matter of time Before I'm missing your tender touch? If you'd ever needed someone in your life Maybe then you'd know Why my heart just wants you to stay But my head tells me to let her go If you'd ever needed someone If you'd put yourself in my place You could never say what's gone is gone If you'd ever needed someone
