Peter Hammill, No Moon In The Water

So

if it's just so then where is it now when I find the moment uncertain?

Broken water pail no moon in the water, try to hold it now.

So

I want to hold on reflection's all gone, no ego so.

Broken water pail no moon in the water, try to hold it now, broken water pail, hold me in the moment, no more ego now.

I would drink the dregs of daylight, break the bread of consciousness and dream: dream day for night, nightfall around us, waking, dreaming, awake to the dream.

Broken water pail no moon in the water, try to hold it now, hold me in the moment, no more ego now, no moon in the water, no more ego now.