Placebo, If Only We Could Sleep

If only tonight we could sleep In a bed made of flowers If only tonight we could fall In a deathless smell If only tonight we could slide In the deep black water And breathe, and breathe And an angel caught

With burning eyes like skull And burry us deep In it's velvet's arms And the rain will cry As a face's let away And the rain will cry Don't let it end Don't let it end
