

Quantic & Alice Russell, Look Around The Corner

Sing to me of your sadness and tell me of your joy
Eyes wide open, sleep walking into the dawn
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is born, rise up
With the new light of the dawn
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is here, another day is born
Tell me what do you see?

We are made of the stars, you and I
So enchanted, hypnotized by space and time
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is born, rise up
With the new light of the dawn
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is here, another day is born
Tell me what do you see?

From the land of the lords of brightness
And audios recording of time
Wheels never turning, ending as we once began
Who know if this is all that is
Count the morning we get to ...
But we must treat wisely, till our days are gone
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Look around the corner, tell me what do you see?
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is born, rise up
With the new light of the dawn
Another day is born, another day is born
Another day is here, another day is born
Tell me what do you see?
