

Rachael Yamagata, Woman

Is there a woman out there who'll take me because I've been far too hurt by this man apparently I don't give him leeway apparently I don't understand and there's a last kiss that we were meant to have but the crossing light turned white too fast There's the last word we were meant to share There's a new girl now
So he shouldn't dare

Is there a woman out there who'll take me
Cuz I need sleep with somebody soft I take a drink, a toast to his fortune I'm not ready yet for coffee or talk

Cuz there are pictures I've yet to take down and he's still watching over my cat At a hotel, just down the street Cuz the new girl Prefers it like that

Save from the one who's lovin' him tonight She's even got a beautiful name Now Rachael and James just doesn't seem right

Well, that's the way it goes that's the way it goes

Is there a woman out there who'll take me cuz I am drifting far off to sea With a couple of ticket stubs to float on And the backlight of each memory

Is there a woman out there who'll take me away cuz I may never fall in love with a man

He was my best friend, my everything
If he can't save me Nobody can

that's the way it goes
that's the way it goes
that's the way it goes
that's the way it goes
