Radogost, Remember My Name (Warrior's Farew

The old man had predicted the death of mine I mocked him over a pint of beer Now ravens fly over the battlefield Black eyes looking at me Treacherous arrow catch the thread Sword finished the rest The grass is red with my blood Christian tore my chest

Goodbye my brothers
Goodbye companions
I'm leaving the bosom of Perun
Remember my name
Remember my courage
I go along with the moon

Hordes of enemies came from the west
They brought us to their god
All sacred fires were extinguished
We know that they are mad
Enough is enough, we reached for swords
We took prayers to Swantewit
And went to the battle, a hundred to thousands
But nothing was agreed

There remaind only mound and song Courage lost in the night Sing bard about the Slavs They're still alive and fight! Sing bard about the Slavs They're still alive and fight!

Goodbye my brothers Goodbye companions I'm leaving the bosom of Perun Remember my name Remember my courage I go along with the moon
