

Rain Fell Within, The Sun In My Wound

The light has grown dim, another day turned to night.
Your tears meet my lips as you hold me tight.

My body is getting weaker and I wish the sun would brighten up the sky.
I thought I'd see a light before the end but all I see is cold and dark.
My body is getting weaker and I wish the sun would brighten up the sky.
I thought I'd see a light before the end but all I see is cold and dark...besides you.

The light has grown dim, another day turned to night.
Your tears meet my lips as you hold me tight.

My body is getting weaker and I wish the sun would brighten up the sky.
I thought I'd see a light before the end but all I see is cold and dark.
Oh, you hold me even closer now. I see nothing at all. With you I cry my last tear.