RAMP, Own Way

Wake up man don't be afraid Of the story of your life See all these things we do Do you think they're right?!

Think There's a time for us to learn To approach, to imitate But there's a time to build A way we can create

Facing one more day Where everything seems so grey You pay the price you have to pay Fighting for your own way

Take it out from yourself Face this truth you have to fight Grab your future in your hand Turn it into something bright

Scream it out and be yourself Proud within your own beliefs And never ever stop to think That you can't reach your deepest dreams

Facing one more day Where everything seems so grey You pay the price you have to pay Fighting for your own way

Our own way

I do believe in my own way In steps I take among these days So you don't care if people stare We can't all say what we all say

Each one should have his own way

So I leave you with this tale For you to carry on Just think about this questions We're living on

There's so much yet to find To discover to combine Just have an open view An open mind

Still... Facing one more day Where everything seems so grey You pay the price you have to pay Fighting for your own way
