Reba McEntire, What If?

sometimes I don't understand feels like we're living in a world gone mad look around, all the same people, they just rush everywhere no time, to even take the time to care we're the ones, we're the lossers in this game so there's got to be a way for us to make it better what if everybody, what if everybody tried to light one spark what if everybody, what if everybody tried with their own heart maybe we could change things somehow somehow it's all up to us, we got to take this world and make it a world of love, we got to do this right we got to find a way to make this change right cause their's got to be a way for us to make it better their's got to be a way we can make it better we can make it better if we try together maybe we could change things
