

Reba McEntire, You're The First Time I've Thought

I've seen you smile more than I thought you would
And I've smiled back a little more than I should
And lately at night while he's sound asleep
I'm thinking things that I shouldn't think
You're the first time I've thought about leaving
And I really don't know what I'll do
You're the first time I've thought about leaving him
I've never known someone like you
Sometimes I wait when I really should go
And Lord only knows what I do that for
And when I get home and he holds me close
I try not to think what I'm thinking most
You're the first time I've thought about leaving
And I really don't know what I'll do
You're the first time I've thought about leaving him
I've never known someone like you
I've never known someone like you
