Reba McEntire, You're The First Time I've Thoug

I've seen you smile more than I thought you would And I've smiled back a little more than I should And lately at night while he's sound asleep I'm thinking things that I shouldn't think You're the first time I've thought about leaving And I really don't know what I'll do You're the first time I've thought about leaving him I've never known someone like you Sometimes I wait when I really should go And Lord only knows what I do that for And when I get home and he holds me close I try not to think what I'm thinking most You're the first time I've thought about leaving And I really don't know what I'll do You're the first time I've thought about leaving him I've never known someone like you I've never known someone like you
