

Robbie Williams, Burslem Normals

In your face there's nowt left They have defaced the marks you left upon the wall
The writing's now not there at all Can you stand what you stood for
Are you more normal than before

Goodbye to the Normals
Goodbye to the Normals

In your place there's just chavs
The kids aren't alright they know they're born today Reaching out to feel the sun
At the time it seemed like fun
I was there when you got done
There for two weeks by the surf
We used to know what we were worth Before the Normals fell to earth

Goodbye to the Normals
Goodbye to the Normals

Whatever happened to the mere mortals crew
The fine young casuals blew a fuse and All the Burslem lads know that they're all Dads
It meant so much to me,
it makes me sad

In your wake there's nowt left
