Robin Trower, In This Place

In this place, filled with empty space Your love holds the key, baby sympathize with me I need you Before I lost, your touch of life and grace I knew that your sweet face could always comfort me I love you

In this place, full of empty space Your soft and tender love will always shine for me I love you Now I know, what it means to have you gone I'm down on my knees baby see by me I love you