

Rod Stewart, I Can't Imagine

I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you
I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you

The sun comes up and the sun goes down
The love is lost and the love is found
Another city, another show
Curtains up and away we go
In the hotel bar
The party started
Lots of laughing, lots of flirting
Happy faces, total strangers
Looking for love in all the wrong places

I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you
I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you

Lovers come and lovers go
Some you remember, some you don't Living up to the expectation
Sometimes out of desperation
For me - no solace could be found
Heavy lies the head that wears the crown
All these memories is too, too sharp
Thank you, girl, for saving my heart

I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you
I can't imagine
Waking up with anybody else but you