Roxette, I Was So Lucky

It's no secret I've been waiting But I didn't expect this Nothing will remain Nothing stays the same After you came

It's no secret I've been starving I never felt anything for years I sat up all night Just to watch your smile When you're sleeping

I was so lucky you came by And turned a different corner I could've been somewhere else You could've passed by, could've passed by

Come on and sail the sea with me Come on, let's go around the world Maybe find a flat Or a canyon house For the season

I was so lucky you came by
And turned a different corner
It could've been someone else
You had in mind
I was so lucky you found me
My rags turned gold and silver
I could've been somewhere else
You could've passed by, could've passed by

What would you make of this, my baby? The sun through the trees Is there a better place to be?

I was so lucky you came by
And turned a different corner
It could have been someone else
You had in mind, oh my
I was so lucky you picked me
My trash turned to silver
Yea, I could have been somewhere else
You could've passed by, could'be passed by
