

Roy Drusky, We Must Look In The Mirror

It's like heaven for me to be near you

(And I try hard to put thoughts of home behind)

While holding you I feel no shame in the things we do

But tomorrow's dawn will bring our hearts a change of mind

For we must look in the mirror tomorrow at our sorrow and at ourselves

[steel]

It's so wrong but my love was never stronger

(But in your arms this wrong always seems so right)

I don't see how this can go on any longer so let's say goodbye and let it in tonight

For we must look in the mirror tomorrow at our sorrow and at ourselves