Roy Orbison, California Sunshine Girl

California woman
Hanging heavy on my mind
Never found another like her
Guess she was just one of a kind

She never wrapped no strings around me She could treat a man so fine I still see her golden hair And the Caliifornia sunshine

Mississippi rain falling on my head No California woman sleeping in my bed Makes me wanna move on, leave all this behind I need my California woman and the California sunshine

Golden California beaches Knocking on a beach house door They say that California woman She don't live here anymore

They say she left with a stranger Leaving nothing left behind She buried all my dreams here In the California sunshine

Mississippi rain falling on my head No California woman sleeping in my bed Makes me wanna move on, leave all this behind I need my California woman and the California sunshine I need my California woman and the California sunshine
