

Saybia, Stranded

I took a life for granted
Untill it slipped right through my fingers
Although forever parted
I feel your prescence more than ever
There's no return from where you went
And it leaves me stranded

It's written in my heart
It's written in my soul now
All the memories torn in me
A constant overload

It's written in the sky
It's written in the stars now
I'm haunted by the things I know
I should've done
All the time we should have had
Is gone

Tonight
In me
Your light will shine, will shine

And with a beautifull sky above
I was reduced to being human
I feel I'm ten feet under
And I long for your embrace
In the absence of your love
I pretend to be alright

But it's written in my heart
It's written in my soul now
All the memories torn in me
A constant overload

It's written in the sky
It's written in the stars now
I'm haunted by the things I know
We should've done
And all the time we should have had
Is gone

Tonight
In me
Your light will shine, shine

In me now
Your living in me
Right in here in the bottom of my heart

In me now
Your living in me
Right in here in the bottom of my heart

In me now
Your living in me
Right in here in the bottom of my heart

In me now
Your living in me
Right in here in the bottom of my heart

With a beautiful sky above
I was reduced to being human

