

Scars Of Life, Shallow

You've thrown away all I've given to you Its not much but its all I ever had I wish that I could do more for you

And I swallow the pride that remains I feel so shallow when you look at me the same

All these years I swear I never knew what it was that I ever did to you Sorry that I look the way you feel.

I wish for it to hear you say call me your son one of these days I never asked that much from you just return the love I gave to you
