Scary Kids Scaring Kids, The City Sleeps In Flam

The empire will fall like they planned on Can we even last through the night? We watch as the sky scrapers crumble Under the burning blue sky That blinds our eyes

This is our last chance To make things right A world lost forever Tonight, tonight, tonight

Well try to find a place to sleep Its going on days, that we've been awake A sadness that i've never seen I said your name, and you, looked the other way

Because these are my last words And this is my last breath I'd give you everything If there was something left I have nothing left to prove And I will live with my regrets I'd give you everything If there was something left

The disconnecting count of days
Of fading away, the lives that we made
Tear drops will spill, from your blue eyes
Intentions were wrong, I apologize
The empire is falling
Like they planned on and we lost it all
The city sleeps in flames

Lost...

Time...

Everything's gonna be fine. Right? Everything's gonna be fine. Right? Everything's gonna be fine. Right? I can't find away to live in this life

The empire will fall like they planned on Can we even last through the night We watch as the sky scrapers crumble Under the burning blue sky, That blinds our eyes

Because these are my last words
And this is my last breath
I'd give you everything
If there was something left
I've got nothing left to prove
And I will live with my regrets
I'd give you everything
If there was something left

Because these are my last words And this is my last breath I'd give you everything But I've got nothing left