Screeching Weasel, The Girl Next Door

White girl living in the big city In a big apartment house She's living with her boyfriend now She drives off every day for school and work She washes dishes now And watches tv on the pull out couch And every day's the same White girl moved back to the suburbs And she finally found a man Who knows how to take care of her She bought the perfect little house And the lawn's well manicured And she'd never missed a day of work And every day's the same White girl couldn't go on knowing She was just here wasting her time She drowned in the lake last night They found her bloated body floating But she still walks around Performing all her daily chores She still don't know what life's about Cause every day's the same And she's got no one to love