

Secret Illusion, Sailing the Open Sea

Look at me, don't turn away from me How misguided can you really be?

The smile upon your face can't hide your blame
Nothing will ever be the same

Washed away on a distant shore Without faith, deserted and alone

The actions of your past will haunt you night and day Will you ever try to find a way to redeem yourself?

All you said will soon fade away
Dark shadows and dust
all that will remain
All these years you stand in my way
(but) not anymore
It's time I wrote my own song

Now you try to mend your wounded pride
It's so hard for you to stand aside

The boundaries between us were never well defined But since you crossed the line, all reasoning you left behind

All you said will soon fade away
Dark shadows and dust
all that will remain
All these years you stand in my way
(but) not anymore
It's time I wrote my own song
and fly to a starlit sky

Your malice, your weakness
Will not suppress my dreams
I'm finally sailing the open sea