Skeeter Davis, Fuel To The Flame

You kindle the fire of love inside me each time our lips meet I'm not strong when we're alone your kisses make me weak You must know how I feel but do you feel the same Every time you kiss me you add fuel to the flame My eyes light up when I see you I burn with desire Each time you're near you say you care but still I'm not sure Olease don't ask me to love you if you're not going to change my name Cause every time you kiss me you add fuel to the flame This fire of love you started inside of me has reached my very soul You're adding fuel to a flame that's already burning out of control When you give me your name I'll give you everything Yes everytime you kiss me you add fuel to the flame
