Spin Doctors, Off My Line

I've been thinking lately
How to get you off my line
Don't seem all that easy but it
Feels alright
I've gotten rid of expectations
that I used to have
And we don't get along and it
Somewhere in between the bl

And we don't get along and it really ain't so bad Somewhere in between the blue & Die Ramp; the red & Quot; This is temporary, & Quot; is all she said Someday things may be a little better than before All these mysteries and they're knocking at my door

Alone in my room

I lay awake and dream

I'm sleeping half awake I got to

Try to explain

That I don't need your love and it

Means this much to me

I don't need your love woman won't you see Somewhere in between the blue & Die Rome, the red & Quot; This is temporary, & Quot; is all she said Someday things may be a little better than before All these mysteries and they're knocking at my door

She must not realize
What this means to me
I figured out her disguise
Hey, mama, I'm not dreaming
(she's way off reality)
I've been thinking lately
How to get you off my line
Don't seem all that easy but it

Feels alright

I've gotten rid of expectations

That I used to have

And we don't get along and it really ain't so bad

[On the lyric sheet, mysteries is crossed out and memories has replaced it. But I have never heard him saymemories.]