Sugarcult, Debbie

Debbie was a lesbian yesterday Woe, oh, oh, ay, ay Fighting all the way her mother's hair to gray And the clock strikes S E X with the girlfriend next We can watch from our window like a sick insect I get chills through my spine when I see her in over time

Debbie went to Broadway yesterday Woe, oh, oh, ay, ay Twisting every boy toys neck all day Like a pinprick right through the heart they have no chance Like a freak in a brothel wanting cheap romance She wore black round the eyes just to scare all the normal guys

Debbie's changing faces everyday until she noticed me With an infectious kiss of jealousy She's making eyes at me

Debbie was a lesbian yesterday Woe, oh, oh, ay, ay Changing with the times this phase won't stay And the clock strikes Y E S with complete distress Phoney lovely now cause she's my sick princess I can tell she's the one I never thought depression so much fun

Debbie's changing faces everyday until she noticed me With an infectious kiss of jealousy She's making eyes at me

Debbie was a lesbian yesterday Woe, oh, oh, ay, ay Fighting all the way her mother's hair to gray And the clock strikes S E X with the girlfriend next We can watch from our window like a sick insect I get chills through my spine when I see her in over time

Debbie's changing faces everyday until she noticed me With an infectious kiss of jealousy She's making eyes at me

Debbie's changing faces everyday until she noticed me With an infectious kiss of jealousy She's making eyes at me