

The Bear Quartet, Who's Knocking

I'll take it, you're back for good but no, just picking up some old stuff besides, you've got a new heartache and he's there for you in the wee hours is there nothing you'd like to ask me how you noticed how I cling to you I know by mind you don't want me and I know by heart that it kills me picture this:

us grown old in a small town,
in a village
it's impossible for you,
totally unthinkable

I'll move down south on the east coast do you care, of course you don't just wanna get your things, and get out of here what have I done for you to detest me the way you do excuse me, I should know, I know, but I don't I never meant to hurt you and if I did or to suffocate you, God forbid
I'd like an answer, do you mind you do, well I tried

picture this:
us grown old in a small town,
in a village
it's impossible for you,
totally unthinkable

picture this:
us grown old in a small town,
in a village
it's impossible for you,
totally unthinkable