The Benjamin Gate, Need

The fear I carry in my heart The things that change and turn around me What is it that I become? What is it that it's all undone? I long to be close to You So close I disappear into You Doesn't matter what I try and do You show me what is real and true The person that I hope to be Not bound by anyone's opinion A person with history Moving to my destiny Whatever I'm needing Whatever I'm feeling I give up to You I give up to You You hold me tight in Your hand That's when I feel the peace that I crave You make me brave to withstand You take me thru this barren land God I hear You speak so clear Your words melt away my fear Even when I'm far - You are near Your love will never disappear That's when I lose myself in You...