

The Exit, Sit And Wait

there's a poor man sucking down his will to live and there's a joe mo working on the late night shift there's a road to get us on out of here and there's a whole wide world for you to fear so take in what they taught you follow in their footsteps the days aren't getting longer but your life is getting cut sit and wait another day there's a war going on in no man's land and there's some things i don't understand there's a father cruisin down the open road and he ain't ever coming home so wallow in the shadows of the one's who done it all
