The Stone Roses, All Across The Sands

Bones of an impressive romance Scattered all across the sands A secret safe with all the world Too vain to seem so capable

Can you hear it calling Do you feel warmer As the hired hand's exposed

How can a pretty painted shell Send them all packing off to Hell A freight train laughs and rattles by You kissed the girls and made them die

Can you hear it calling Do you feel warmer As the hired hand's exposed

And I'll never come here again And we will never come here again And we will never play here again Again

Can you hear it calling Do you feel warmer As the hired hand's exposed

After her call After her call After her call And she calls