

Toni Cornell, Far Away Places

I am building a house inside my heart the windows and the doors like form the inside
and siting in the dark when used to be a daylight who will I give a key who will be there for me who's gonna show me how to trust

trust somebody
to trust somebody
to trust somebody else
without losing myself

I am building a boat inside my mind and drifting in faraway places and no one will know where I will gone I be all alone , imaginative faces

who's gonna sail a sea
to come and rescue me
to trust somebody else

now I am on m,y own just me
drifting in my boat
