

Trillium, Eternal Spring

A whisper in the moonlight
And the faintest hope within
Such fragile beginnings
Growing strong at every whim
My faith is renewed upon your bated breath

Winter will never steal the warmth I've found in you
We'll bloom forever here
Together in eternal spring

The ancient word of wise men
Cannot fail the test of time
For sooner or later
Every soul will feel the signs
I carry vows and oaths to lay here in your hands
And standing here I know I've reached the promised land

Winter will never steal the warmth I've found in you
We'll bloom forever here together
When night will fall, the light you gave me carries through
We'll shine here
Together in eternal spring

Around me, heavens break with all at stake
Surroundings maybe change, but you remain the same
Astound me every day with all you have to say
And I say, stay...

Winter will never steal the warmth I've found in you
We'll bloom forever here together
When night will fall, the light you gave me carries through
We'll shine here
Together in eternal spring
