

TXT, Magic Island

even the stars are sleep tonight the river so familiar and yet so strange crossing the ashen gray city have you been waiting for me alone our clumsy promises and a little secret began on the little island

remember?
the song of your and my star in it
we were stars

the melody that sparkled whit dreams please don't even forget the place here is our start line
our start line
the starlight we watched together that night

must not forget the night
must not forget this place would it all be in vein would all our dreams become memories this voyage has become adrift seems like I forgot how to smile at the end of gray reality and when darkness calls me again

remember?
the day we were stars
the little song we left on this island
please don't even forget
the place here is our start line
our start line
the starlight we watched together that night

must not forget the night
must not forget this place