

UB40, Home

I thought this would be easy
I thought you would understand
There's nothing left here for the two of us
Darling, come take my hand

Let's get out, let's just go
Find a better place to call our home
'Cause everyone 'round here looks our way
With a face like we're something wrong

We're not here to take what's yours
Barely just [?]
So when you tell me go back home
Remember, this is the only home I've ever known

The only home I've ever known
The only home I've ever known

Darling, if we should leave now
'Cause we've not let the bigots win, are we really giving in?
After all that we've sacrificed, shouldn't
We sing the words we've had to survive?

Let's get out, let's just go
Find a better place to call our home
'Cause everyone 'round here looks our way
With a face like we're something wrong

We're not here to take what's yours
Barely just [?]
So when you tell me go back home
Remember, this is the only home I've ever known

The only home I've ever known
The only home I've ever known

I thought this would be easy
I thought you would understand
So, darling, come take my hand

And let's get out, let's just go
Find a better place to call our home
'Cause everyone 'round here looks our way
With a face like we're something wrong

We're not here to take what's yours
Barely just [?]
So when you tell me go back home
Remember, this is the only home I've ever known

We're not here to take what's yours
Barely just [?]
So when you tell me go back home
Remember, this is the only home I've ever known

The only home I've ever known
The only home I've ever known
The only home I've ever known
The only home I've ever known
