

Velvet Belly, He's Packing

He called to say
He's packing his bags again
Not to hurt us
But he doesn't want to explain
He knows that we know

And off he goes
One more time
And no one knows just where
'Cause we've stopped
Following him everywhere

We're always waiting for a change

And when the telephone rings
We know it's him
He calls to ask
Hey, where have you been
He knows that we know

We're all waiting for a change
