

Venator, Red and black

Things are changing and time only knows
They've let down a nation, the fear within grows
War's been senseless and another won't change
Anything to good, they're sick of your games
A nation is dying while the leaders feast
The people's rebellion's soon to be unleashed
But where will they go? I don't know

Red and black, beyond devastated
Red and black, they're calling that night
Red and black, beyond devastated

Storming millions breaking the line
The big man dethroned and taken from might
Lady liberty is waving the flame
The end of the rebellion shall not end the game
The cheer turning silent, hope's black as the night
They're left without guidance, no solution in sight
And where will we go? I don't know

People waiting for a sign,
Too many seek for power, tension's growing in their minds
`Til they find themselves forming sides
The friend becomes enemy, separating all
What's once been a family, another war

Raging gunfire fills the night
Reign of terror, peace denied
And when there's a new one to put fear in their heads
The hammers of justice unmoved yet again
Don't ask where we go, I don't know
