

Victims Family, Friends

they tell us that our friends aren't important because there's work to be done but i'd rather be poor and live with my friends than be rich and die all alone the lust for money has turned people numb their obsessions over power the fright they don't even know or care what they've done they'd kill if the price was right but friends can work out their problems and make the hard times quickly pass a life full of pleasure and good times a feeling of love that will last a life without worry of power or greed it's the only life we've got there's much more to life than increasing it's speed too precious to every be bought and so you lost all your friends because of this game think you'll buy more later on, but the friends that you bought aren't even the same
'cause all yuor real friends are gone
