

Vigilantes Of Love, Galaxy

Put on your coat when it's bitter and cold
And step forth into this good night
Yeah your lips were so soft and our eyes were so closed
And we bathed in the halogen glow

You empty your pockets and sort out your change
Of the things you picked up along the way
With this wind at our feet and the sun on our face
I believe we can walk all the way

She said I'll show you a room but I don't have the key
But then I love traveling light
And if you let go your burdens and hold onto me
Well we're both gonna be alright

Now this you should keep but that one you don't need
There's no need to ever push or shove
And this makes the stars shine through the galaxy
It's the stuff that dreams they are made of

Both gonna be both gonna be both
Both gonna be both gonna be alright
