

Visions Of Atlantis, Lovebearing Storm

Drowning, lost in the dark cold night
Where she needed me to stay at her side
For the first time I saw my want and will
By her dreams I was chosen to fulfill

Night by night into sleep he fell
Where the need for love gave me my own hell
In the deepest gloom of his misery:
Will the light of real love ever shine for me?

I'm the kingdom
I'm the crown
I keep beholding
Whatever is shown
My love is (made) forever
(For) you and me
May the light of real love always shine for me!

No more I'm lost in the dead of the night
We have found each other, a lover, a bride
No more lonesome gazing at the moon anymore
In your heart I witnessed what my life is for!

A lover's promise, the test of time
My heart is yours, will yours be mine
When the storm rose over thy boat at sea
Thou were saving my life, and you cared for me

Beneath the sea I drowned in despair
Was it wise or not to take me there
But no long time passed and the truth did come
For each other we've shown up as the only one

A different kind of morning, light is breaking and dawn over me
Embraced by your gentleness and wisdom I turn free from sleep
May our hearts beat together, make eternity shine, for a second of living, a (sweet) moment in time

And riding through the ocean I see that there's nothing to fear, for living is like dancing in the heaven of dreams when you're near May the world fall apart now, may the ocean dry, we have seen what it is worth living (for), for a moment in time
